The image consists of a grid of horizontal and vertical black lines on a white background. The grid is composed of 16 horizontal rows and 16 vertical columns, creating a total of 256 small squares. A decorative pattern is overlaid on the grid, consisting of several rows of diamond shapes. These diamonds are formed by pairs of diagonal lines that intersect to create a series of alternating light and dark gray shaded regions. The pattern starts with a row of single diamond shapes at the top, followed by a row of double diamond shapes, then a row of triple diamond shapes, and so on, with the complexity of the diamond patterns increasing in each subsequent row. The entire pattern is contained within the boundaries of the 16x16 grid.

The image shows a vertical grid of 20 horizontal rows. The top portion of the grid is decorated with three distinct horizontal bands. Each band is composed of a central row with diagonal cross lines extending to the left and right, flanked by two rows with similar diagonal patterns. The remaining 17 rows are plain horizontal lines.
